NEVADA MANAGER HERE Arrangements Were Completed

Football enthusiasts can rest assured that they will see a good game next Thanksgiving day. The competing teams will be none other than the University of Nevada and the University of Utah. Yesterday Manager Fred P. Thompson of the Nevada team arrived in the city from Reno to try and arrange a game, and before he left the city contracts were closed with Manager George Riser of the local varsity to bring the team to Salt Lake.

Manager Thompson said that Nevada Manager Thompson said that Nevada would have a stronger team than ever the coming year, as they had a number of men in sight who should be able to considerably strengthen last year's team. That team, however, was one of the strongest that ever represented Nevada, and won over the locals by a score of 6 to 2. This fall the local students say they are going to win from the Nevada boys, which means that they will have to get together the strongest aggregation of griddron warriors that ever represented a Utah school.

Manager Riser said vesterday that he
